

EMBLEM SIGNIFICANCE

The shield with scroll is the traditional group color emblem display fashion of the United States Air Force. The deep blue field with nebulae, a symbol of clouds, alludes to the sky. The golden spread wings signifies our determination to fly our display aircraft. The silver propellor, along with the gold piped Army Air Corps emblem denotes our groups interest in historic aircraft. The red sub-field is to honor all pilots who have given their lives in the furthering of aviation. The green horizontal striping indicates the forests, and the even stitch rows of gold comprising the lower field the harvest producing plains of our prairie state. The emblem bears the national colors and the Air Force colors - gold and ultramarine blue.
